KILLED IN-FRONT OF HOME

Mrs. Clemensten Falls in Front of Big Manawa Motor Car.

Was Making Effort to Save a Child Whom She Believed to Be in Danger but Who Escapes Injury.

Mrs. Christina Clemensten, wife of John C. Clemensten, 2230 South Sixth street, was struck and killed yesterday morning by a southbound Lake Manawa car at Sixth street and Twenty-third avenue. The accident happened almost in front of the unfortunate woman's home and in plain sight of several members of her family. Mrs. Clementsen's right arm was cut off at the shoulder and she received other severe injuries. When picked up life was extinct. Mrs. Clementsen had been across the street to visit a neighbor prior to accompanying her daughter and son-in-law to Omaha to spend the day. As she was leaving the neighbor's house she noticed one of her little grandchildren open the gate of her daughter's residence on the opposite side of the street and start to run toward her. Seeing that one of the large closed motors was approaching from the north and fearing that the child might be run over by it. Mrs. Clementsen started to cross the street to head the child off. She would have had plenty of time to get across before the car reached her had she not stumbled by striking a rail with her foot. She fell and before the motorman had time to drop the fender or stop the car the wheels had passed over and crushed the life out of her.

Death was evidently instantaneous, as by the time the horrified members of ther family, who had witnessed the accident, reached her side, life was extinct. She left but a short time previously full of the expectation of enjoying the holiday with her daughter and son-in-law and their the scene of the accident, decided to hold an inquest Monday morning. The car was in charge of Conductor C A. Plunkett and Motorman John McManus. The accident so unnerved both of them that when their car reached the barn on the return trip they had to be relieved from further duty for the day. Motorman McManus said that he noticed the woman standing between the sidewalk and the track and presumed that she was waiting for a northbound car. When the car was within a short distance of the woman she started to cross the track and he at once rang the bell to warn her. She would have crossed in safety, he said, had she not stumbled and fallen directly across the track in front of the car before he could ower the fender or apply the brakes.

The word 'therefore" had been in the draft just preceding the declaration that tariff rates "must from time to time be changed." and that word "therefore" was stricken out to depend on anything else. It was this little word "must" which annoyed the small group of stand-patters the day before the convention, and for two hours they worked with the governor and others who had committed themselves to the new wording of the platform to have the word "must" changed to "should" or "ought" or some form that would take the life out of it. Governor Cummins "efused to recede and insisted the word would have
